

Some Class
Random Examples

Devin D. Droddy

Contents

Chapter 1

Page 2

1.1 Intro to Conditional Probability

2

Chapter 1

1.1 Intro to Conditional Probability

Conditional probability is a probability that changes when new information is given. The probability of event A , knowing that event B has occurred is known as the probability of A given B , denoted as $P(A|B)$. The formula for conditional probability is $\frac{P(A \cap B)}{P(B)}$.